PARK BENCH

The first duty of an editor at the end of the year is to acknowledge the help that was given him throughout the year.

Thus, many many thanks to the following: Mr. Beatty, staff advisor; all the members of the yearbook staff, especially Nancy Phillips and Scott Rumsey; Mr. Nerlich and the Photo Club; and all of the commercial department staff and students who helped make this year's Park Bench happen. Also, many thanks to the main office secretaries and the caretaking staff, whose help we greatly appreciated. Special credits must go to Larry Yates who designed this year's cover, and to Tom Luckwaldt who created the cartoons on these pages. Next I must take the time to put on record what I feel about the future of the school and the school system.

I think that a careful look at schools in general, and Westview in particular, is needed if the school as we know it is to survive. As this editorial is being written, action for and against cutbacks in educational spending is being considered. The staff in the school are concerned about class sizes, and their job security among other things. The North York Board of Education is worried about saving money. And, in the middle of this crisis, the students are going about their activities as though nothing is happening. In fact, the people who will be most affected, us the students, are too busy worrying about tomorrow's test, or the weekend ahead to realize that serious consequences will result from our lack of attention. I suppose that all the symptoms of the disease have already showed up. Every year the yearbook has been in financial trouble due to lack of support. The students council elections for next year's S.C. were reduced to a farce with only 2 positions out of 6 positions on the council being contested. Only 9 students were interested enough in Students Council and what it stands for to run for election. Although house elections have not been held yet I am prepared to predict that they will be more of the same. Perhaps some houses will only have 1 co-captain due to lack of interest. All these are signs of student apathy. The word "apathy", in my opinion, is very cliché now, but it happens to fit what is happening in Westview. I can only pray that the summer break will see some sort of compromise being worked out and put into effect.

I can only hope that the minority of the school who bought a yearbook, and the even smaller minority who troubled to read this message will show it to others and take the time to seriously reconsider their positions.

Finally, my best wishes to students leaving the school, and to those of you who are returning, think hard about next year. When you are seated among 40 other students in class you will not have the peace and quiet necessary to do so!

As for me, I'm going to become a member of the Student Apathy Committee.

Peter M.J. Davies

Skis, poles, helmet...the whole bit. And he paid for it all himself, with the help of the high interest rates at the Commerce. Barry's sold on the Commerce way to save. Likes the tellers and services, too. And knows that when he goes to college there'll be a Commerce branch nearby. It figures.

CANADIAN IMPERIAL BANK OF COMMERCE

Westview has established itself in the community — it has come of age. This is due, in part, to the excellent relationship that has been promoted with the business and industrial concerns in the area by staff and students. I am particularly pleased with the favourable reports we are constantly receiving about the contribution our graduates are making in the community.

The 1972-73 school year is not one year among many, but a year to be remembered for several reasons. It was the year of the North York Senior Football Championship, the Wrestling Championship and the first musical production "Kiss Me Kate". The House system was introduced and as the House executives were established and became functional, some of the objectives of the system such as greater student involvement and identity began to be realized.

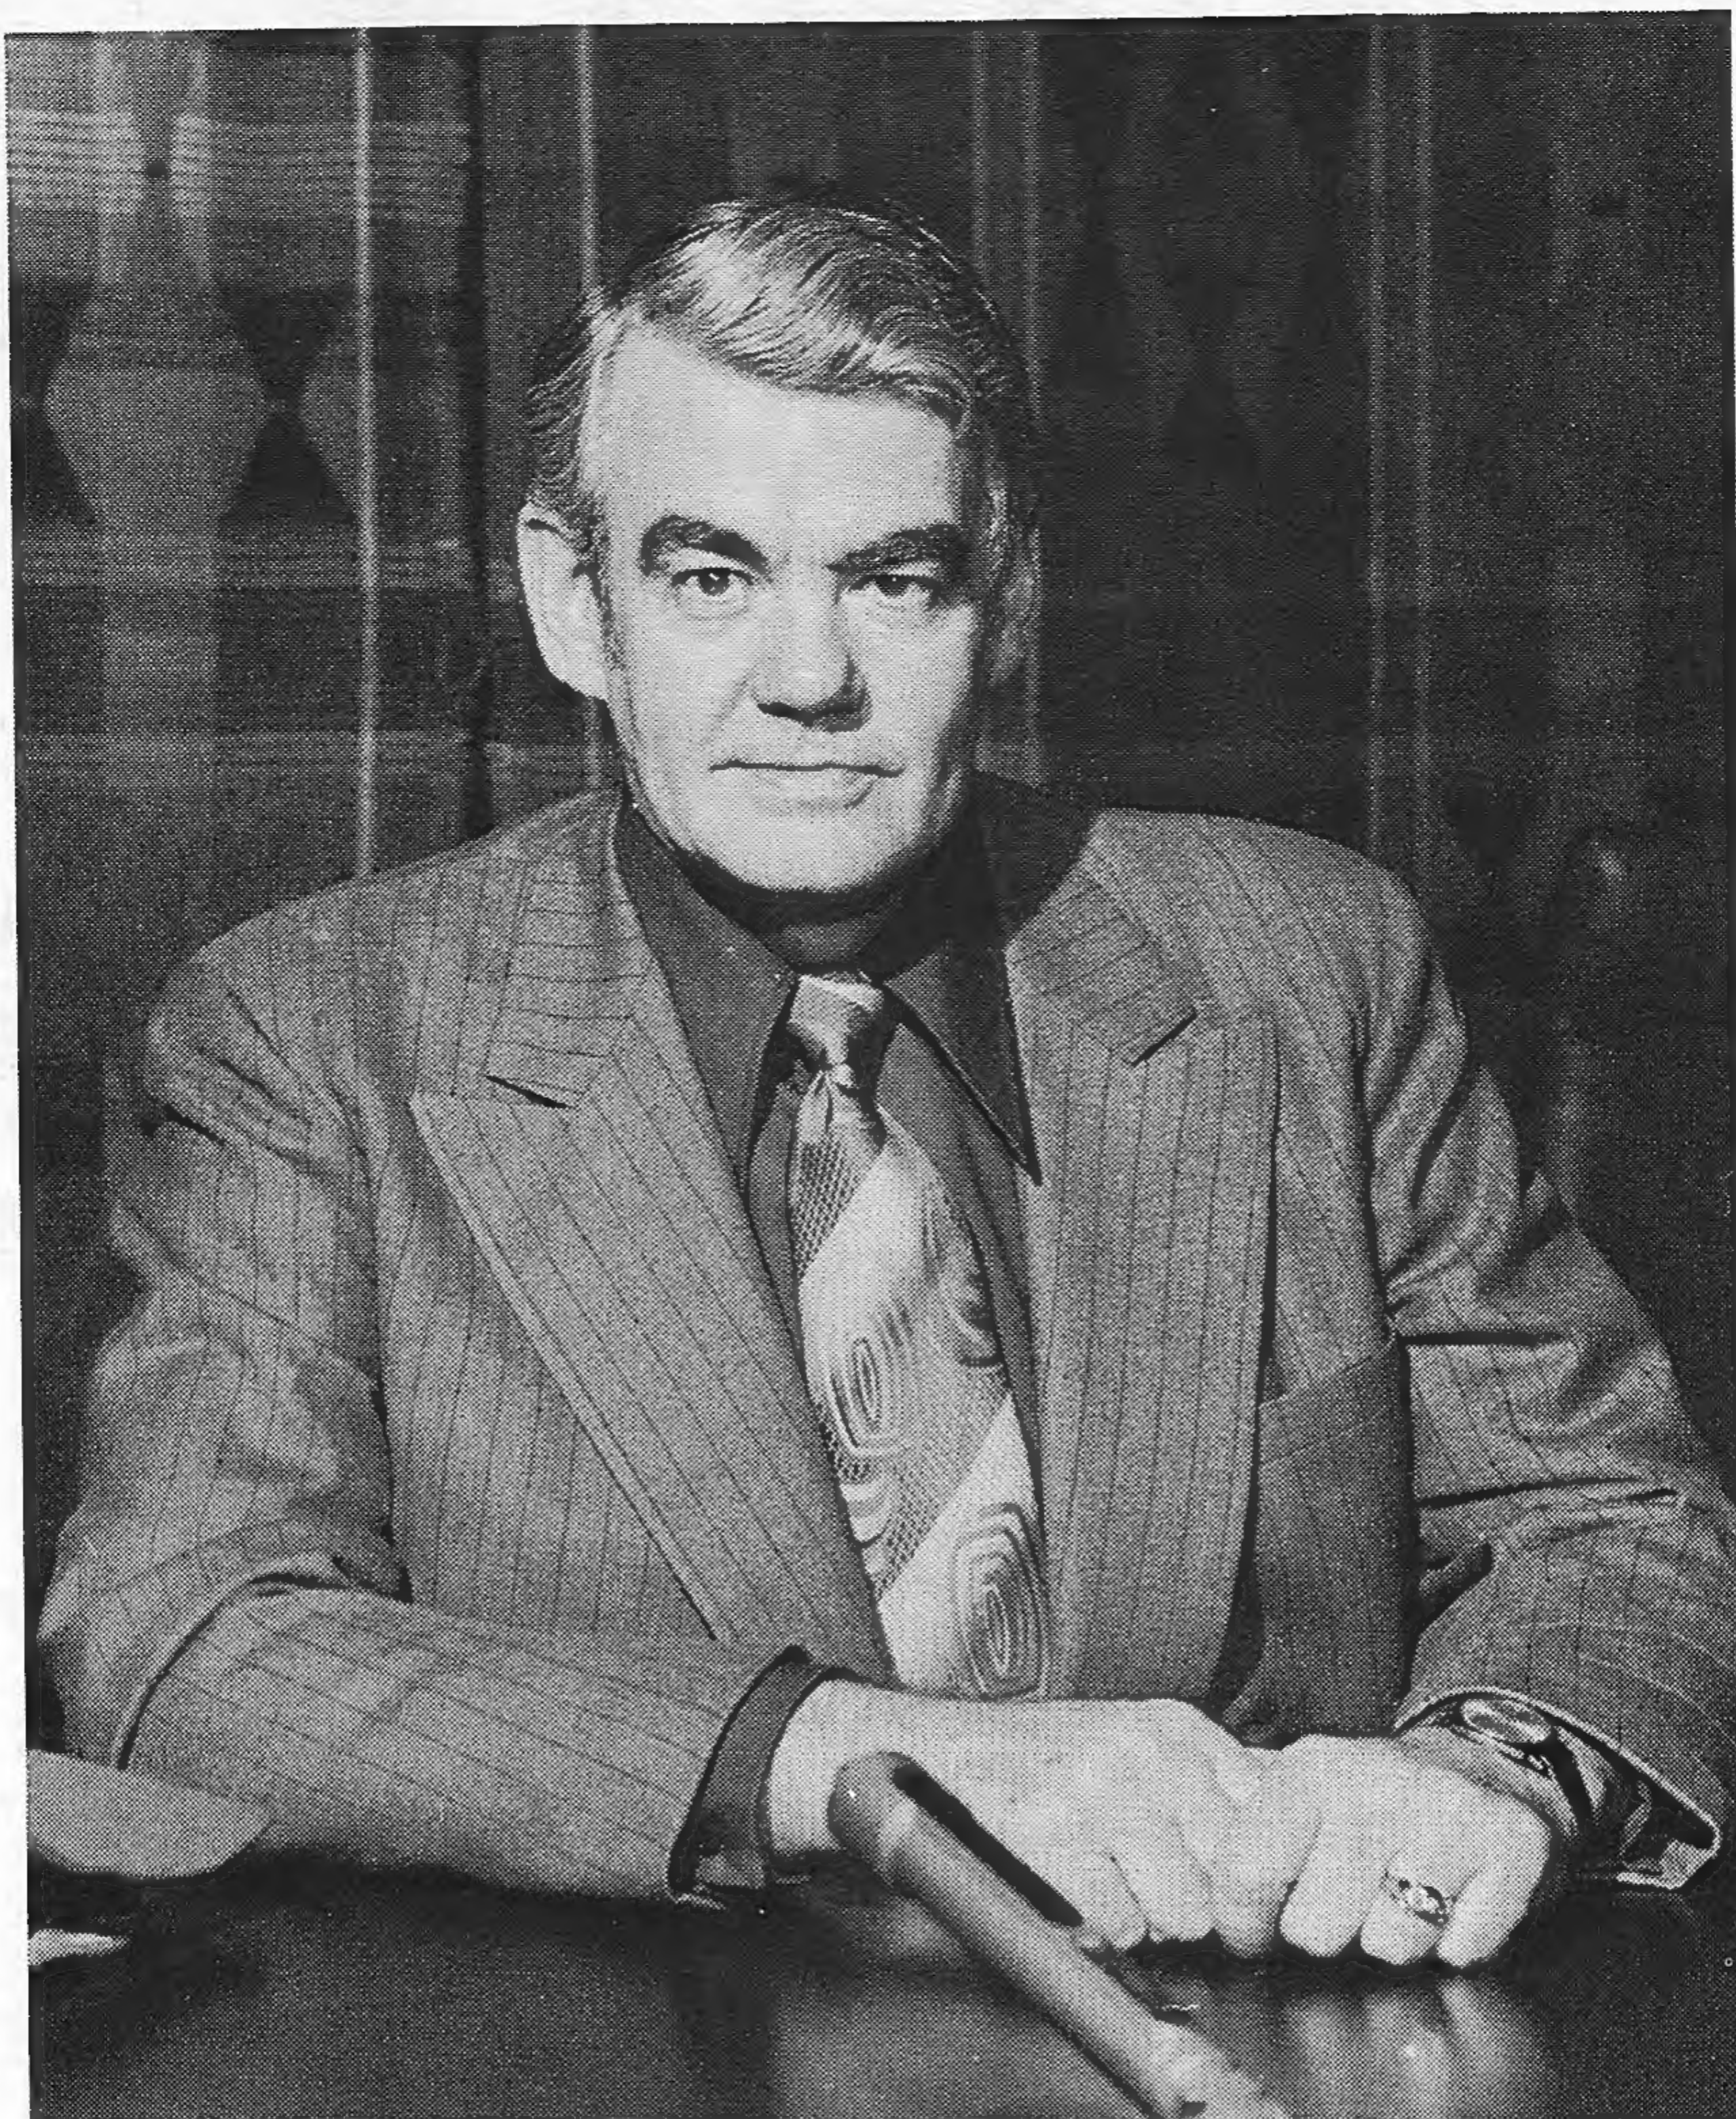

To the graduates, I wish you every success in your future endeavours.

To the editorial staff, this year's Park Bench is the result of many months of arduous and, at times, frustrating work. I congratulate you on a job exceptionally well done.

A. F. Bell

Mr. Futa
Mr. Shiner
Mr. Ross

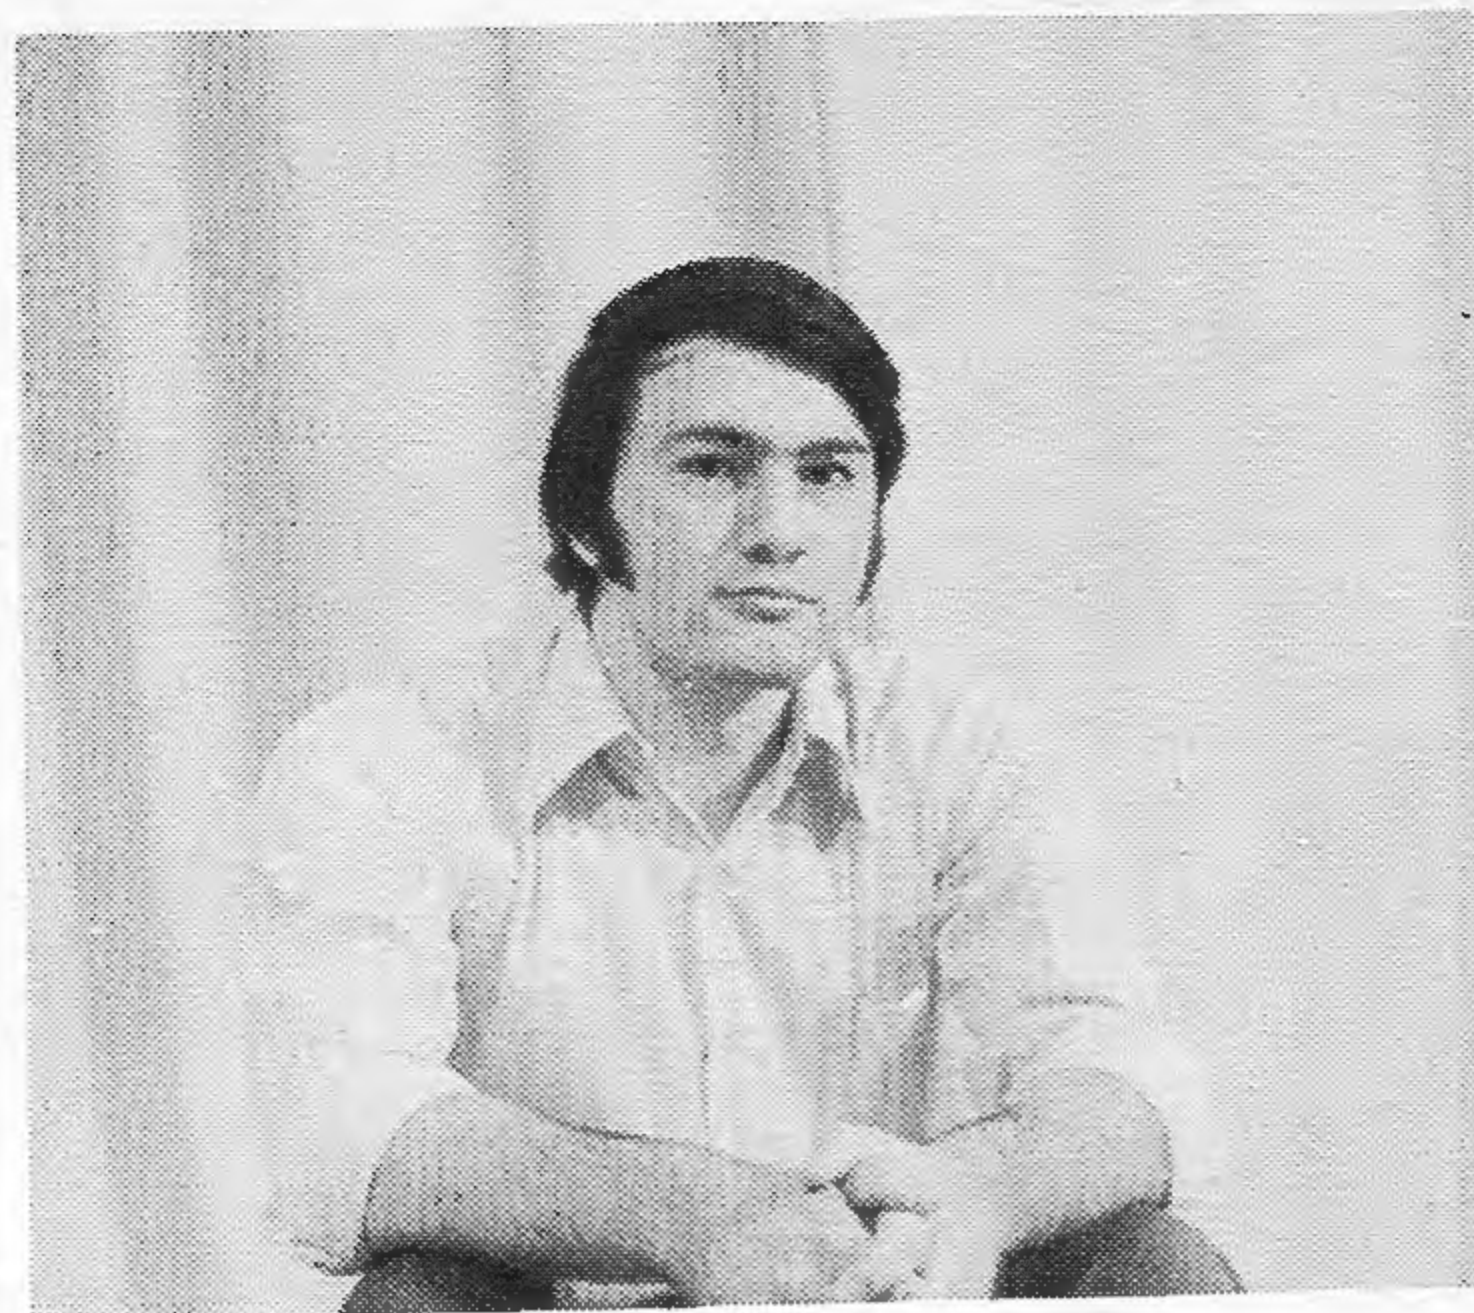

The greatness of Canada, throughout our history, has been the unique quality of the spirit of the people. On the frontier, on the battlefield, in the building of great cities, and in the constant search for new horizons, there has been an indomitable spirit to reach a goal. The compilation of a school year book is a manifestation and a record of young people working, playing and striving for new goals in education.

In your school association, you have laid the foundation for lifelong friendships and acquired knowledge from which you can build and discover new learning experiences. You have found enjoyment, pleasure and a sense of accomplishment from working together in athletics, dramatics, music, vocational and academic projects. As Chairman of the Board of Education, I congratulate you on recording this year of history in your lives, and offer you my best wishes for your future.

George R. McCleary.

GEORGE R. McCLEARY
CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD

Time, as it inevitably must, goes by rather quickly. We now find ourselves at the conclusion of another successful year. A year which, in Retrospect was extremely exciting and full of many accomplishments — in athletics, academics and social functions.

This year, more than any other, the student body not only supported the Students Council, but also assumed some initiative and interest in making the house system work. The result, an interesting school year.

The Students Council also worked much better this year than any other — this perhaps due to the consistent and hard work of the Council members, and the helpful guidance of the staff advisors.

Therefore I would like to take this opportunity to extend my deepest appreciation and thanks to the staff advisors, Mr. Diachun and Mr. Bissett, and to you the students of Westview for making my last year at Westview interesting and very educational.

Thank-you

Commencement Speech

Mr. Bell, members of the Westview staff, parents, fellow graduating students, friends.

The famous author, Mark Twain, was once quoted as saying: "I have never let my schooling interfere with my education." When he spoke these words some one hundred odd years ago, I am certain that he was quite justified in saying what he did for at that time, education consisted merely of memorizing the pages from a text book.

There were only two rights and one wrong. The teacher and the text book were right — always — and the poor student who expressed a slightly differing opinion was wrong. But then again, students, and I use that term loosely, were only an insignificant part of the educational system. They had nothing whatsoever to do with their education other than to listen to their teachers and memorize their books. Of course, everyone that went to school had to memorize the same things. Those that memorized the best were "A" students; those that did not memorize as well were "B" students; and then there were the rest.

The educational system was an important part of society for it was the educational system that told students what ideas they were supposed to have for the rest of their lives. It was so efficient that it not only told students what to think but also how to think about it and it did this so well that many people never even bothered to ask themselves why they were thinking about what they were told to think about.

In many cases, the school decided where a student's interests lay and after it had done this, it would then decide the student's future career. Of course society made it quite clear that the more schooling one had, the more money one would make and the better a place he would in society.

The result of this type of educational system was that when one finished school he became as insignificant a part of his society as he had been in his educational system. He quietly took his place in society, as his schooling had taught him to do. He went to work, paid his taxes, was shocked to hear that another war had begun, was shocked at all the violence that was taking place in the world. This was the extent of his concern. As long as he continued to make his money, his contributions towards the betterment of his society was nil.

Yes this is what Mark Twain's educational system was like and these were the type of people that his system produced. But the frightening thing about this, shall I say, old fashioned educational systems is that we, the 1972 graduates, were in a system very similar to Mark Twain's no more than six or seven years ago.

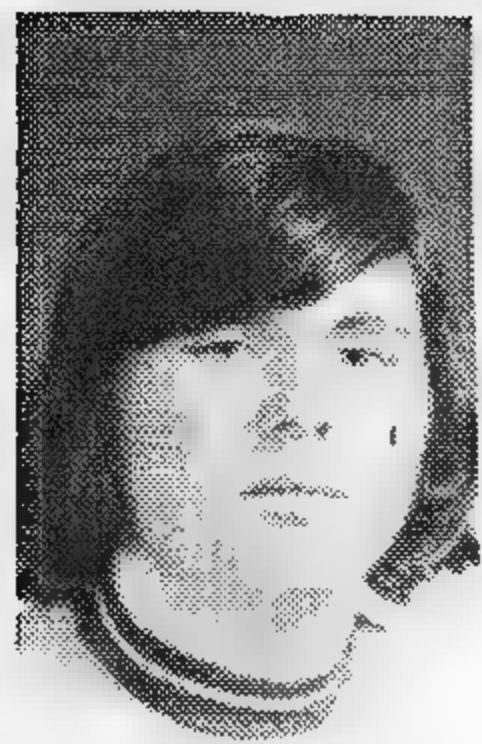

It was only a few years ago that things began to change. People were actually studying the educational system and suggesting that there were some areas in which improvements could be made.

First of all, people going to school were going to become real students who could study what they liked and not what they were told to study. Students were given freedom of thought and expression and more personal freedoms as well, as rules dating back almost one hundred and fifty years were abolished. People were starting to see that students had ideas of their own even while they were still in school. People were starting to see that graduation was not the magical day that gave students the power to think, — even though that power was never used, but that students had always possessed that power.

Thus, the student became a person with his own thoughts and ideas who could not only possess but also express these ideas. The idea of going to school changed from one of memorizing text books to one of learning through actual experience. Now people go to school to get an education. Because of their education they are learning to see things from more than just one point of view. They are learning to communicate amongst themselves. They are learning that education is not merely a means for materialistic gains but a means to enrich their own intellect the way they want. For this reason people are looking for jobs requiring more intelligence.

So where does all this leave us, the graduating class of 1972. We were not in the new system long enough to be considered part of it but again we were not in the old system long enough to be considered part of it either. Do we want materialistic gains from our schooling or do we want an education? Do we want to live in a society such as the one we live in now where there is violence, destruction, apathy, and disregard for other individuals, a society where people are afraid to speak out for fear of what the neighbours might think; a society such as the old educational system has succeeded in producing? Or do we want to live in a society where communication amongst individuals takes the place of the fight for material gains, a society in which we can speak our minds and accept our neighbour's criticisms at the same time, a society where we can become individuals and use our intelligence to its fullest capacity, where violence and disregard for others no longer exist, a very idealistic but feasible society? Being in the position that we are in, we can choose between the two but I am confident that the graduating class of 1972 adheres to the latter principles and that we will strive to achieve a better society because we the class of '72 can prove our point on an intellectual basis. Ladies and Gentlemen; I thank you.

When I was but a tiny lass
a teddy did I own;
His eyes were made of brown stained glass
and cotton formed his bones.

His ears they were as black as coal,
his arms and legs the same;
It took me near two years to give
That teddy bear a name.

I took him everywhere I went,
Both shopping and to bed
I knew, though, the world would end
When Spot ate little teddy's head.

But Mommy found a remedy
To fix my broken heart.
She sewed his head as good as new
So it wouldn't fall apart.

For six long years, he was my friend
Until the day he died.
Not one word could I even say
I just sat there and cried.

He saw more rain, and mud, and snow
Than either you or I.
The day he left, my mother said
"He's gone up to the sky."

"Our Lord, dear God, has him home-
He knew you'd understand."
I looked at her, just looked, and stared.
She took me by the hand.

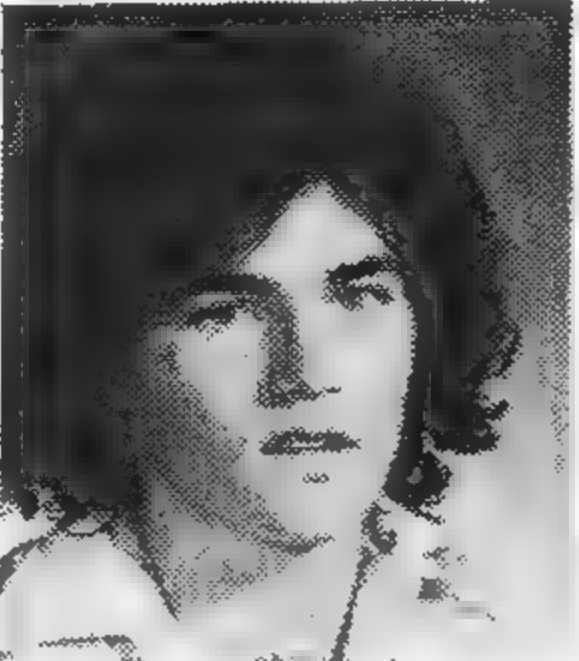

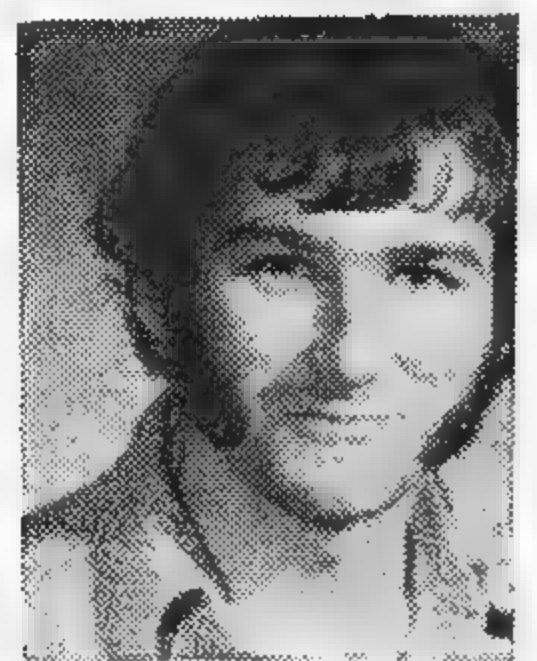

I didn't know quite what she said;
I still don't to this day.
But if My girl should lose her toy
I know just what I'll say.

I'll tell her of my teddy bear
And what he meant to me.
I'll tell her of our Lord, dear God,
And maybe she will see.....

That God has reasons, always good,
To do the t-ings he must
To take in stride things as they come,
And she, our God should trust.

High school hallways,
Busy hallways,
allways full of good cheer.

In the air there's a feeling of belonging.

All kids pushing,
teachers smiling,
meeting eachother in the halls.

And in the cafetorium you'll hear:

WE-STV-IEW----

WE-STV-IEW----

We're the best±!

We're the best!

There is no doubt about it.

We're the best!

We're the best!
